About Me

I come from a background in the automotive industry, where I was able to develop my team-working and problem-solving skills, working in the quality department for more than five years, for the biggest names in the industry. However, I have always been interested in management sector of a company and I am now looking to establish a career in this direction. This interest has led me to recently graduate a level 4 qualification, Certificate of Higher Education (CertHE) in skills for the workplace and I am currently studying Bachelor of Arts: Developing Leadership and Management. I am a hardworking and loyal employee with excellent decision-making skills and a drive to succeed. I am confident that I will make a valuable addition to your team.
