

MARKING CRITERIA and STUDENT FEEDBACK

This section details the assessment criteria. The extent to which these are demonstrated by you determines your mark. The marks available for each criterion are shown. Lecturers will use the space provided to comment on the achievement of the task(s), including those areas in which you have performed well and areas that would benefit from development/improvement.

Common Assessment Criteria Applied	Marks Available	Marks Awarded
General Comments
Considering the requirements of this elements of coursework - end product should be a mobile enabled website - what you have provided is a desktop version that sort of works with a mobile view and its content should be displayed with a relevant framework. Given you have a set of API's that work, that's fine, but the website needs a rethink	100	50

2. Knowledge and Understanding Skills
Considering you have a set of user defined API, they appear to be working fine. However, you have done all the hard work regarding the weather API i.e., getting it working - you did not exploit its functionality	15	10
3. Cognitive and Intellectual Skills
Remember, this is all about your approach to development and not simply a description and final code segments. This is all about from a starting point i.e., nothing, the formation of an idea onwards to development/testing - mind you this was discussed on the last feedback from CW1. Also, you have not provided any API documentation that a 3rd party developer can use	15	6
4. Practical Application Skills
Simple message here - rubric is clear on this assessment, a mobile enabled website with API's - I cannot argue with the API's there are working fine, but the layout structure of this project is more for desktop rather than mobile. With regards to the weather API - happy you have this working, so why not exploit its data and present it better. Also, you have not provided anything on this site that shows customisation of the front end	70	34
5. Transferable Skills for Life and Professional Practice
