TOUCH

Skin is the largest organ in our bodies and sends good and bad touch sensations to our brains. From birth until the day we die, we have a need for physical contact. Early in life touch is important in building relationships and bonding through stimulation of oxytocin. Touch can reduce heart rate and blood pressure and help us to feel calmer and less stressed. Touch reduces the release of cortisol and seems to have a beneficial role in our immune response.

CHROMORPHOUS

ChroMorphous is a new innovation in the textile industry. Our fabric is an active, user-controlled, color-changing eTextile. With ChroMorphous color-changing fabric, you can control the color and patterns of your clothing and accessories at any time, using only your smartphone.

Photochromic dyescreate a dramatic effect on the clothes and make them to change their color,when the clothes are exposed under sunlight and absorb the ultra violetradiation. Once the radiation is removed, the dyes resume their original color.
