

Acting students;

We will be doing a workshop audition, discussing different news reports before developing some of them into devised pieces.

The headlines we will be looking at are:

- _____ speaks out on her 'very sad' split.
- Woman charged with attempted murder after knife attack.
- Victim with 'hole in her face' says former partner blamed her.
- Woman used fart selfies to harass partner's ex.
- _____ Revenge porn experience felt life 'grief'.
- Police 'victim blame' women in Facebook post.
- Tiktok influencer _____; 'I get death threats every day'.

You will be divided into groups and I will ask you to devise a piece based on some of the headlines – I am interested to see how flexible and imaginative you can be in your decision making to reveal how these reports can be moulded into new interpretations - whether that will be made through dynamic shifts in tone, ways of storytelling or experimenting with movement and body language, will be up to you.

All I ask is that you come with good energy, an open-mind and a willingness to explore and be creative in your choices.

Set, Design & Production students;

We will have a nice discussion about yourselves and your work during an interview.

Feel free to bring in your portfolios and CVs to give me an introduction to your work and an insight to your past experiences.

In this interview you will be asked a series of questions, examples down below:

- What was your role during Mainhouse Theatre, what skills did you learn that you could bring forward to this module?
- In your chosen role, what excites you about this play? Do you have any ideas to put forward?
 - o It would be great if you could show examples of these ideas (powerpoint, sketches etc)
- Describe your top 3 skills and how they would be useful to this company.
- In your chosen role, do you see any challenges that may arise when looking at a play such as Attempts on Her Life? How would you overcome those challenges?

All I ask is that you come with good energy, an open-mind and a confidence in sharing your work and your ideas.
