Together We Are Stronger

Why choose Sport4All?

Sport4All ensures that social inclusion is the most positive way forward for young people. We base our work on the theory of Vygotsky (1978) who said that the environment in which young people work have a major influence on their behavior and future, and this environment promotes inclusivity and social development.

Sport4All is recommended by the Neath Port Talbot Youth Offending Team as a way for young people to contribute to their community in a positive way.

Daniels (2000) says that all inclusion is interpreted differently, and we make sure to integrate all new members and make them feel welcomed and included. Our Sport4All family can decide what they do, and how and when they do it.

What is available?

We offer an Olympic sized boxing ring with gear such as gloves and headguards, as well as coaches available to oversee.

We give young people the opportunity to participate in a 5-a-side football team, with coaches available to work on teamwork and communication.

Personal trainers are provided for the young people who would rather participate in their own weight training.

Maslow in 1943 developed what he called his hierarchy of needs, where the idea is that basic needs must be met in order for young people to feel safe and secure. We intend to satisfy the needs of all young people, as they are our focus, at all times.

Principles of Person Centered Planning?

Supported by Elwell (2017) we ensure:

- The focus of Sport4All is always on the young people participating, and their life.
- The control is with the young person who decides what they would like to do and how.
- All issues and plans will be discussed with both staff of Sport4All and the young people involved present.
- Every aspect of the young person's needs are important.
- The focus of Sport4All will be on young people's gifts and goals.
- Development of both social and physical skills will take place at a pace the young person is comfortable with.
