

UWTSD Inspire

UWTSD is something that the universities are being to attention because they want to make a change to the students, to make them think more and be award of changing in the future.

People are trying to make sustainability fit for the campuses and the community. UWTSD inspire is the way to do that because they've been giving students the information they need and the skills they should know to help them in the future. UWTSD runs within different university's and each university has been affect by this, they have even joined with someone else to make an impact. In university they have interns for students, to go and learn about the subject. they have 3 different courses you can choose from. UWTSD inspire does much more than sustainability, they work on improving the environment, green impact etc. They place sustainability in the center of everything their communities, culture, campuses and curriculum.

The challenge of this is to make students better at solving problems, and a strong mind set in relation to social and environmental. UWSTD actually one three awards silver, gold and bronze. they want to see change to the building to show that change is happening. They even do competitions to win awards about literature and the sustainability debates. UWTSD have taken up the people and planet university league, they are showing they can make a change by talking to the students and understanding environmental issues. they are stepping up their challenges by making sure the students get the skills and understanding they need to tackle. they are the 8th most effective university in the UK in term of environment and ethics.

They have meetings where they can share their ideas with other business people and produce a paper. the winning paper would be published. They have won awards in the past for this UWTSD inspire. Jane Davidson says that its thinking about today's action and how they can affect the future generations, they want to make sure they have the highest environmental standard. if students take these courses they will learn a lot about all these subjects, and how they affect the environment and other universities. They can achieve a lot of knowledge and skills to help them within the future, with whatever job they will get. knowing about sustainability and environment will give a good impression on people, especially if you're working within a business company. Also teaching this subject will also help the staff understand more about the subject, things they didn't know before, they will gain knowledge and understanding. People have been watching the changes happen during the years, now they are taking action and making the environment around the university better. there are a lot of trees round and they are well kept. The university is well looked after. UWSTD has also won awards for catering, they are the first to achieve a life gold catering mark.

Sustainability is a big part of business which everyone needs to know about If tackling a subject like this. you gain knowledge by finding out things and doing activities on the environment, you need to maintain a good environment and a good working place in order to achieve your goal. students would be creating ideas on sustainability and the environment, which means they would also need to look after the building and the environment. Some people don't really care for the environment or the building, but showing others that you can help in different ways might change minds about sustainability and the environment or another situation related. even outside university, showing people that it doesn't take much to look after the environment is a big thing, because you can share your ideas on how you can prove yourself and ideas on how you can save the environment and make a change. doing subjects like this can change you as a person, because you release things you didn't before, you become more aware of your surroundings and you have more knowledge on situations you didn't think you would.

UWTSD is the best place to come and learn, because they can teach you so much information about anything you want to know. you can be an intern in different subject not just sustainability or environmental. which means you would know a lot more thing other than the earth. A lot of universities have been affected by these changes the universities are making which is a good thing, universities are taking action and becoming more sustainable. if they all work together then they can make a really big change to everyone, they can make so many people gain so much skills and knowledge they won't have to worry about the future because they would have known everything they need to and if they need to sort something or share ideas they'd have the skills too.

After doing my essay on this, I've learnt a lot of things myself that I didn't know about the university. you can gain knowledge just by researching a subject and writing about it, I didn't know you could join a course about these subjects, which is really handy to know.

http://www.uwtsd.ac.uk/media/uwtsd-website/content-assets/documents/inspire/INSPIRE_Comms_Mag_OnlineVersion.pdf