Arts in Action & Design in Action:

Aims

- Widening access to higher education by enabling student artists to work alongside teachers and children to share their expertise within a supported framework
- To give children the experience of working with a practicing artist, designer or performer to develop their skills using materials, tools, techniques and conceptual thinking
- To give the opportunity for a nominated teacher to work alongside an artist, designer or performer to develop expertise in working in particular art or design processes and/or mediums
- To develop ideas that combine those of the artist, designer or performer and pupils to design/make/perform pieces of work that culminate in a shared experience or display at the school and in a public exhibition.
- To record and disseminate features of good practice amongst the partners and the wider community.

“The Arts in Action scheme is an exciting collaboration between schools and the University bringing expertise into the classroom and providing the pupils with an opportunity to excel they might not otherwise get”

An Arts in Action Student Experience!

“For a week in June I was lucky enough to take part in one of the most rewarding and self-fulfilling experiences I have ever had. I worked with a year 3 class in Clase primary school and taught the children how to be a fashion designer. Without Arts in Action I would have never have experienced how fantastic working with children can be and it has really opened my eyes in terms of how to interact with various personalities, learning disabilities and even teachers! I really believe Arts in Action has given me a new far more positive way of analysing life and it is something I will never forget. I hope to take part again next year. My CV now shows such valuable experience and from taking part in the program I have been lucky enough to become involved with other groups, which have started new wave of creativity.” Sian Clarke, Surface Pattern Design

The Arts in Action project is the best experience I have been given since I started University. It allowed me to be able to teach with full support by the Arts in Action team. I have gained many skills while being involved with this project and it has given me confidence to do further projects
