INTRODUCTION

This Module Directory includes all the modules for Levels 4-6 within the BSc Criminology portfolio in the academic year 2026-2027.

This directory accompanies the Programme of Study Handbook, which will provide you with details of which modules you will be studying for your programme this year in the 'Programme of Study' section. This directory may include modules that are running on other programmes of study within your School/Faculty. If you require assistance in identifying the modules for your programme of study, please contact the Programme Manager (whose name and contact details are provided in the accompanying Programme of Study Handbook), or the relevant Faculty Office.

The University has made every effort to make the information as full and as accurate as possible, but you should note that minor changes in the organisation of modules between the planning stage and the actual teaching are inevitable. We shall try to keep any such changes to a minimum, and you will receive plenty of advance warning in the event of any alteration. We would also be grateful if you would let us know about any changes that you think might be helpful if introduced into future handbooks.

AIM(S)

- To develop the student's employability skills through practical first-hand experience within a workplace environment.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to:

- evaluate relevant voluntary/employment opportunities within their chosen field of study in order to determine suitability for continuing professional development;
- analyse and reflect upon their performance whilst undertaking work experience.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

- This module is work experience/placement based, allowing the learner to be responsible for managing their own learning and development according to the aims and objectives of the work experience.
- The module tutor will provide ongoing support to set goals and targets for the completion of the work experience.
- It must be noted that, whilst students will receive on-going support and guidance in organising a work experience, it is the student's responsibility to secure an appropriate work experience, and NOT the tutor's.

Study Time Allocation

The study time for the module is divided as follows:

Activity type	Hours	Percentage
Scheduled learning	0	0%
Independent learning	120	60%

AIM(S)

- To offer students the opportunity to pursue an appropriate range of learning experiences whilst studying abroad.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to:

- demonstrate the ability to complete an appropriate number of study units at the appropriate level in an approved host institution outside the UK;
- compare and evaluate the approaches to the student's subject between home and host institutions;
- demonstrate critical reflection of the impact of studying abroad on their knowledge, practice and understanding of the subject;
- demonstrate critical reflection on the transformative impact of studying abroad, exploring how the international experience has influenced personal growth, cultural awareness, and the development of transferable skills;
- communicate effectively to a range of audiences.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

The specific content of this module will be personalised for each student.

A Learning Agreement will be created by the appropriate Discipline representative and the International Mobility team to include (as appropriate):

- the specific details of the courses in the host institution which the student agrees to attend and complete assignments for whilst studying abroad;
- details of additional compulsory practical tasks to be completed during the Study Abroad (e.g. membership of appropriate societies, clubs, teams etc.);
- details of any additional assessment tasks which could be deemed necessary to fulfil the Aims of the Programme of Study. These agreed additional assessment tasks would normally involve the negotiation of:
 - specific suitable assessments for additional areas of study;
 - the intended learning outcomes of the areas of study;
 - the process by which learning outcomes are to be achieved;
 - the proposed assessment tasks, designed to provide evidence that the learning outcomes have been achieved;
 - the proposed assessment criteria linked to the learning outcomes.

- In consultation with the Discipline representative the student will negotiate:
 - a programme of reading and/or research;
 - arrangements for interaction with the tutor during the Study Abroad;
 - a date for the final submission of work that allows appropriate progression to the next level of study.

During the Study Abroad phase, the student will undertake all aspects of the agreed Learning Agreement. In addition, the student will maintain regular contact with relevant staff at the University to monitor progress, including a named tutor or Discipline representative. Upon return to the UK, the student must ensure that a full record of all work, including copies of all formal assessments undertaken in the host institution during the Study Abroad, is kept and brought back to the University following the Study Abroad. These must be presented to the Academic Director, or named Discipline representative.

AIM(S)

- To introduce the key concepts, topics and debates in the sociology of policing and critically examine the police within the context of the historical and social developments of modern police organisations, their role, function and culture.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to:

- recognise and analyse the significance of different accounts of the emergence of modern police organisations, and of their role and function in society;
- identify some of the different institutions which are involved in contemporary policing, demonstrate an awareness of some of the challenges posed by an increasingly plural policing environment, and critically evaluate the idea that there is a distinctive 'cop culture';
- evaluate the relevance of key social divisions (including class, gender and race) for thinking about policing and police organisations, with an awareness of issues of police governance and accountability, including the significance of human rights.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

- Policing foundations – role, purpose, goals and strategies.
- Policing history – early policing and development.
- Legal Issues - procedures, enforcement, liabilities.
- Police strategies – developments, improvements and investigations.
- Police administration – organisational change.
- Accountability and ethics.
- Police and society – impact, collaboration and change.

AIM(S)

- To provide an understanding of the evidence-based skills and practices criminal justice practitioners - such as prison officers, probation officers, and youth justice workers - should employ to work effectively with service users, and to scrutinise their impact, effectiveness and equality.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to:

- explore evidence-based criminal justice skills and practices for working with service users (people who are serving court orders under the supervision of probation officers or prison officers);
- analyse conventional means of evaluating criminal justice programmes for service users and apply appropriate collaborative working practices to manage conflict and support effective decision-making;
- assess how theory and research can inform policy and practice.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

- Explore the challenges encountered by convicted offenders.
- Critical thinking, troubleshooting, and problem solving.
- Innovative rehabilitation programmes for offenders.
- Review of rehabilitation services including the design and delivery of services.
- Examination of real-world partnership working within the public sector.
- The influence of third sector organisations in rehabilitating offenders.
- The negative outcomes associated with some programmes for offenders.
- Recommendations for continued change and improvement.

Module Code	BMLC6000
Title	Conducting Investigations
Date	30/06/2025
Level	6
Credits	20
Pre-Requisites	None
DBS Check	May be required ☐ Not required ☒

AIM(S)

- To critically examine the principles of conducting investigations from initial contact to post trial.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to:

- demonstrate a detailed knowledge and a systematic understanding of the role of a response police constable, as well as the structure and processes in relation to a wide range of investigations;
- demonstrate a systematic understanding of the importance associated with working efficiently and effectively with victims and witnesses;
- undertake a role play exercise to demonstrate investigation in practice.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

- The roles, responsibilities, as well as the structures and processes required to know by a frontline police constable in relation to a wide range of investigations.
- The fundamental principles, legislation and powers related to conducting investigations.
- The appropriate processes for gathering and managing intelligence/evidence.
- The types of evidence that may be obtained during an investigation.
- The legislation and supporting principles relating to police interviews.
- The difference between 'volume and priority' crime and 'serious and complex' crime and the relevance to the investigative process.
- Additional sources of intelligence that can be obtained during a complex investigation.
- The roles and processes associated with conducting complex investigations.
- The intricacies associated with victim and witness care during a complex investigation.
- The range of specialists to liaise with in relation to complex live (or cold) cases.
- Overview of casefile preparation.

Title	Dissertation for Law and Criminology
Date	16/05/2025
Level	6
Credits	40
Pre-Requisites	None
DBS Check	May be required ☐ Not required ☒

AIM(S)

- To enable students to conduct independent, original research on a topic of their choice within the field of law or criminology. Students will develop critical thinking, research, and analytical skills, culminating in the production of a dissertation that demonstrates their ability to engage with legal or criminological theories and methodologies.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to:

- demonstrate the ability to design and execute a substantial piece of independent research, including the formulation of research questions, selection of appropriate methodologies, and ethical considerations;
- critically analyse and synthesise relevant literature, data, and findings to produce a coherent and well-argued dissertation that contributes to the field of law or criminology.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

- Overview of the dissertation process, including topic selection, research design, and proposal writing.
- Examination of qualitative and quantitative research methods, data collection techniques, and analysis strategies.
- Techniques for conducting a comprehensive literature review, identifying gaps in existing research, and situating the study within the broader criminological context.
- Discussion of ethical issues in legal or criminological research, including informed consent, confidentiality, and the impact of research on participants and communities.
- Guidance on analysing and interpreting research data.
- Tips for writing a clear, concise, and well-structured dissertation, including guidance on referencing, formatting, and presenting findings.

Study Time Allocation

The study time for the module is divided as follows:

Activity type	Hours	Percentage
