INTRODUCTION

This Module Directory includes all the modules for Level 4 and 5 within the Academy of Sinology in the academic year 2019-2020.

This directory accompanies the Programme of Study Handbook, which will provide you with details of which modules you will be studying for your programme this year in the 'Programme of Study' section. This directory may include modules that are running on other programmes of study within your School/Faculty. If you require assistance in identifying the modules for your programme of study, please contact the Programme Director (whose name and contact details are provided in the accompanying Programme of Study Handbook), or the relevant Faculty Office.

The University has made every effort to make the information as full and as accurate as possible, but you should note that minor changes in the organisation of modules between the planning stage and the actual teaching are inevitable. We shall try to keep any such changes to a minimum, and you will receive plenty of advance warning in the event of any alteration. We would also be grateful if you would let us know about any changes that you think might be helpful if introduced into future handbooks.

LEVEL 4

Module Code	SICH4001
Title	Introduction to Traditional Chinese Morality and Ethics in Education I
Date	30/10/2018
Level	4
Credits	20
Pre-Requisites

AIM(S)

- To introduce students to an understanding of traditional Chinese approaches and understandings of morality and ethics.
- To introduce students to the moral and ethical ideas contained within the texts Di Zi Gui (Guidelines of Being a Good Person) 《弟子規》、《Basic Manners and Conducts》《常禮舉要》 and Yangzheng Yigui (Legacy of Cultivating Virtues) 《養正遺規》.
- To introduce students to the moral and ethical approaches and understandings of the ancient sages and explore what insights can be derived from them for contemporary society and for their own position within that society.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to demonstrate the ability to:

- understand the ancient Chinese texts of 《Guidelines of Being a Good Person》《弟子規》、《Basic Manners and Conducts》《常禮舉要》 and Yangzheng Yigui (Legacy of Cultivating Virtues) 《養正遺規》
- explain the various meanings held within the classical Chinese texts Di Zi Gui (Guidelines of Being a Good Person) 《弟子規》、《Basic Manners and Conducts》《常禮舉要》 and Yangzheng Yigui (Legacy of Cultivating Virtues) 《養正遺規》.
- self-reflect through a daily diary on their personal engagement with various classical Chinese texts and the teachings of ancient Sages’.
- understand and explore the moralities, virtues and altruism to be found within the work and teachings of the ancient sages, and apply to non-academic settings.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

This module will introduce to students the fundamental concepts of traditional Chinese morality and ethics, and the related etiquette and code of conducts. In addition, it will cover the approaches and methodologies that the ancient scholars used to develop their academic knowledge of the teachings of ancient sages. Many examples will be drawn from ancient history to demonstrate the importance of traditional Chinese ethics and morality across a range of area and social spheres.

The programme of study will in general cover the following:

- Studying the core sections of Di Zi Gui (Guidelines of Being a Good Person) 《弟子規》 and the work 《Basic Manners and Conducts》《常禮舉要》
- Also studying the works Yangzheng Yigui (Legacy of Cultivating Virtues) 《養正遺規》 and “the Deeds of the Ancient Sages”
- Explore the ideas, virtues and practice taught within these ancient Chinese texts.

Title	Sinological English I
Date	31/10/2018
Level	4
Credits	20
Pre-Requisites

AIM(S)

- To introduce the students to the art of translation for texts of sinology with a focus on translating selected Daoist literatures such as Laozi's Tao Te Ching.
- To equip students with the appropriate skills to translate the classical Chinese texts of Laozi and related essays into English.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this module, the student should be able to demonstrate the ability to:

- explore a variety of original texts central to Daoism;
- demonstrate knowledge of the various methodologies used in the translation of classical Chinese into English;
- reflect upon the various existing translations and understandings of the selected texts;
- offer translations into English of extracts from these classical Chinese texts.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

- This module will introduce students to the challenges inherent in translating classical Chinese texts into English. It will explore existing translations of selected texts. Students will get acquainted with the following English translations. Although Waley's version was made in 1968, our edition published in 1997 in Great Britain has included both Romanizations of Chinese currently in use - the old Wade-Giles system and the new pinyin system. It is advisable that the students be familiar with them both.
- More particularly the module will examine Laozi's Tao Te Ching and The Inner Chapters of Zhuangzi in the original; look at relevant chapters or passages in their corresponding versions of English translation and discuss the merits and insights found in the translation by various authors such as Arthur Waley, D.C Lau, A.C Graham and Yulan Feng.

MODULE CODE: SICH4005
TITLE: Philology
DATED: 05/07/2017

LEVEL: 4
CREDITS: 20

JACS CODE: T100

AIM(S)

- To study the texts of An Overview of Philology and An Annotation of Shuowen Jiezi, and to understand the origins and evolution of Chinese characters, and grasp six principles of character construction.
- To systematically engage with 540 radical sections of Shuowen Jiezi.
- To identify and reflect on the relationship among forms, sounds and structured meanings of the characters, and the rationale behind them with the help of marks and annotation of 540 radical sections and the rationale behind them.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to demonstrate the ability to:

- to encourage students to engage with 540 Shuowen radical sections, the structure of the characters and the rationale behind them;
- exhibit knowledge and understanding of the origins and evolution of Chinese characters and six principles of character construction;
- analyse the structure of the characters and the relationship among forms, sounds and structured meanings of the characters, identify the primitive forms of Chinese characters and write the small seal scripts;
- understand the philology of ancient Chinese characters and classical texts.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

This module will introduce the range of skills necessary for students to engage in 540 Shuowen radical sections, the structure of the characters and the rationale behind them. The methods and approaches will be tailored to the specific requirements of the particular programme of study but will in general cover some of the following:

- The origins and evolution of Chinese characters and six principles of character construction;
- 540 Shuowen radical sections, the structure of the characters and the rationale behind them;
- Practical illustration of the relationship among forms, sounds and structured meanings of the characters, and their annotation;
- Methodology of marks and annotation of 540 radical sections and individual practice of it.

LEARNING AND TEACHING STRATEGY

Lectures will introduce the students to the concepts, principles and practices. Tutorials and seminars will introduce practical examples which will be used to support the application, discussion, and critical evaluation of techniques learned. Case studies will also be used to develop understanding and application of the techniques.

Guided independent study allows students to further their independent learning skills with appropriate support provided by the module tutor(s) (e.g. preparation for lectures and seminars, follow-up work, background reading, revision, completion of assessment tasks).

The allocation of teaching to deliver the module is:

LEVEL 5

MODULE CODE: SICH5001
TITLE: Traditional Chinese Morality and Ethics in Education II
DATED: 05/07/2017

LEVEL: 5
CREDITS: 20

JACS CODE: T100

AIM(S)

- To explore with students the philosophy of 'fundamental causality' as set out within traditional Chinese approaches to morality and ethics.
- To provide students with various case studies drawn from the ancient sages to help embed understanding and insight of the concept of causality and related philosophical concepts.
- To provide students with a close textual analysis of "Treatise on Response and Retribution" 《太上感應篇》、"Lord Superior Wen Chang's Tract On The First Step Towards Non Abidance" 《文昌帝君陰騭文》 and "Anan Wen Shi Fo Jixiong Jing" 《阿難問事佛吉凶經》 to develop a full understanding of the code of conducts and develop practices designed to foster self- reflection.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to demonstrate the ability to:

- understand and recite the ancient Chinese texts of "Treatise on Response and Retribution" 《太上感應篇》、"Lord Superior Wen Chang's Tract On The First Step Towards Non Abidance" 《文昌帝君陰騭文》 and 《阿難問事佛吉凶經》
- understand and evaluate the various meanings contained within the classical Chinese texts "Treatise on Response and Retribution" 《太上感應篇》、"Lord Superior Wen Chang's Tract On The First Step Towards Non Abidance" 《文昌帝君陰騭文》 and "Anan Wen Shi Fo Jixiong Jing" 《阿難問事佛吉凶經》.
- understand the theoretical basis for applying knowledge acquired from the ancient texts and teachings of sages to non-academic settings and critical self-reflection.
- apply knowledge and understanding of the fundamental philosophy of causality within a variety of educational, scholarly and public settings.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

This module will further explore the traditional Chinese concept of 'fundamental causality', and its related case studies and texts. In addition, it will cover the fundamental approaches and methodologies undertaken by the ancient sages in the fundamental causality as a moral and ethical guide to practical living. It will look to develop students' understandings of the ancient sages' teaching in enhancing a critical self-evaluative and self-reflective approach, in order to help students build positive mentality and understanding of the world.

The module will more specifically look at the following:

- A study of the "Treatise on Response and Retribution" 《太上感應篇》 as a means of accessing the concept of cause and effect based on the ancient texts of Daoism.

- A study of "Lord Superior Wen Chang's Tract On The First Step Towards Non Abidance" 《文昌帝君陰騭文》 to explore how the ancient sages accumulated merits of life by being mindful of benevolence and honesty in dealing with all beings.
- A study of the "Anan Wen Shi Fo Jixiong Jing" 《阿難問事佛吉凶經》 to understand the concept of causality based on the teachings of Shakyamuni Buddha.
- Learning from "the Deeds of the Ancient Sages" to understand the historical examples of causality.

LEARNING AND TEACHING STRATEGY

Lectures will introduce the students to the concepts, principles and practices. Presentation and seminars will introduce practical examples which will be used to support the application, discussion, and critical evaluation of practices learned. Case studies will also be used to develop understanding and application of the etiquette. Guided independent study allows students to further their independent learning skills with appropriate support provided by the module tutor(s) (e.g. preparation for lectures and seminars, follow-up work, background reading, revision, completion of assessment tasks).

MODULE CODE: SICH5002
TITLE: Sinological English II
DATED: 05/07/2017

LEVEL: 5
CREDITS: 20

JACS CODE: T100

AIM(S)

- To introduce students to the art of translation in the sphere of sinology.
- To enable students to better understand Confucianism and Buddhism in both English and the original classical Chinese.
- To allow students to compare a variety of different translations and thus understand the arts and techniques of interpretation.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this module, the student should be able to demonstrate the ability to:

- critically analyse a key text rendered into English from a traditional Chinese translation;
- exhibit a knowledge and understanding of the methodologies used in translation;
- critically reflect upon the merits of various existing translations of selected texts;
- competently translate Classical Chinese into English and vice versa.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

This module will require students to pay special attention to the merits in translations done by previous authors insofar as their artistic creation and accuracy are concerned. One of the best benefits translations can give is to enhance the reading abilities in the original texts as regards to their possible interpretations or ambiguities. Students will get acquainted with the following books to understand the problems. Confucius' Analects, for instance, has numerous versions in English. Between James Legge and Arthur Waley, we see a distinctive difference in conservatism and a free-hand rendering. The choice is to the student. But the main question remains in the aim of the authors. Only when the student tries his own hand on translating can he realise which way he is facing. Language is in fact only part of the problem. Understanding of the original texts provides more possibilities in the work. Lin Yutang and Fingarette are but couple of the useful examples.

- Waley, Arthur, The Analects of Confucius.
- Legge, James, Confucian Analects.
- Lin Yutang, Wisdom of Confucius.
- Fingarette, Herbert, Confucius: The Secular as Sacred.
- Legge, James, Works of Mencius
- The Sutra of the Ten Good Deeds.

LEARNING AND TEACHING STRATEGY

Lectures will introduce the students to the concepts, principles and practices. Tutorials and seminars will introduce practical examples which will be used to support the application, discussion, and critical evaluation of techniques learned.

Case studies will also be used to develop understanding and application of the techniques.

Guided independent study allows students to further their independent learning skills with appropriate support provided by the module tutor(s).

The allocation of teaching to deliver the module is:

Activity type	Hours	Percentage
Scheduled learning	40	20%
Independent learning	160	80%
Placement learning
TOTAL	200	100%

ASSESSMENT

Assessment Component 1 – 30% Presentation (15 minutes) ENG

MODULE CODE: SICH5003
TITLE: The Governing Principles of Ancient China: Selections from the Book of Rites
DATED: 05/07/2017
LEVEL: 5
CREDITS: 30
JACS CODE: T100

AIM (S)

- To systematically engage with the texts of the Book of Rites and related commentaries.
- To understand and reflect on the philosophical, political, religious, ethical and moral ideas contained within the Book of Rites, and their reception in both ancient and modern contexts.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to demonstrate the ability to:

- critically evaluate key texts from the Book of Rites;
- exhibit knowledge and understanding of a range of annotations, commentaries and other reflections upon the Book of Rites as a canon;
- exhibit knowledge and understanding of key texts from the Book of Rites from different historical, cultural, and philosophical/ethical perspectives;
- critically reflect and recite upon the ethics and value systems contained within a range of texts from the Book of Rites.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

Firstly, the module will focus upon a detailed study of the selected chapters from the Book of Rites. Then the module will engage with a critical research on its authorised commentaries in the history. Lastly, the modern relevance of ancient Chinese rites and music, especially their functions on moral education will be addressed. The module will consider more specifically the following elements:

- The formation and nature of the Book of Rites;
- Approaches to translating and understanding the key texts;
- The range of critical commentaries on key texts from the Book of Rites;
- The influence of the Book of Rites on both ancient and modern Chinese thought and social and cultural practices, particularly on Confucianism;
- The historical and ongoing significance of the value systems contained within a range of texts from the Book of Rites.

LEARNING AND TEACHING STRATEGY

Lectures will introduce the students to the concepts, principles and practices. Tutorials and seminars will introduce practical examples which will be used to support the application, discussion, and critical evaluation of techniques learned. Case studies will also be used to develop understanding and application of the techniques.

Guided independent study allows students to further their independent learning skills with appropriate support provided by the module tutor(s) (e.g. preparation for lectures and seminars, follow-up work, background reading, revision, completion of assessment tasks).

DATED: 05/07/2017
LEVEL: 5
CREDITS: 30
JACS CODE: T100

AIM(S)

- To provide students with knowledge of the first two classics of The Five Classics, which are the foundation of the Chinese culture.
- To enhance students' understanding of the ancient culture of China in the domain of literary and historical achievements.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of the Programme of study, students should be able to demonstrate:

- a knowledge and understanding of ancient China in its wider cultural content;
- ability to critically evaluate a wide range of classical texts and the spiritual, philosophical and ideological traditions they embody;
- skills in reading and reciting the ancient classical texts on their own;
- critically evaluate the various interpretations of the texts written by scholars of different times.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

This module will focus on the texts themselves insofar as the philological, philosophical and historical backgrounds are concerned. Traditional comments on them are common and often form the basis of fierce dispute. Case studies will also be used to develop understanding and training for the students to sharpen their knowledge of the texts. In particular Students will study carefully the following books in the Reading List if they wish to get acquainted with the problems of The Books of Poetry and History: Guided independent study allows students to further their independent learning with appropriate support provided by the module tutor.

LEARNING AND TEACHING STRATEGY

Lectures will introduce the students to understand the texts correctly and literally and pay special attention to their significance in a cultural sense. Tutorials and seminars will introduce practical examples which will be used to support the discussion, interpretation and critical evaluation of the texts. Guided independent study allows students to further their independent learning skills with appropriate support provided by the module tutor(s) (e.g., preparation for lectures and seminars, follow-up work, background reading, revision, completion of assessment tasks).

MODULE CODE: SICH5005
TITLE: Phonology
DATED: 05/07/2017

LEVEL: 5
CREDITS: 20

JACS CODE: T100

AIM(S)

- To explore with students the final and tone of a Chinese character or Chinese language classification.
- To explore the three branches of phonology: Ancient Phonology, Mid-ancient Phonology and the Equal Rhymes.
- To study the relationship between the elements of initial, final and tone by publicly performing verse from Weng on the Rhyme.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon the successful completion of this module, the student should be able to demonstrate the ability to:

- critically analyse the elements of initial, final and tone of a Chinese character or Chinese language;
- use effectively the correct pronunciation and classification among the three elements of a Chinese character;
- understand the features of the three branches of phonology and demonstrate understanding of relative pronunciation classification;
- critically reflect upon the pronunciation system contained within a range of texts from the Classic Texts.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

This module will introduce the range of skills necessary for students to engage in phonemes of a Chinese character or Chinese language. The methods and approaches will be tailored to the specific requirements of the particular programme of study but will in general cover some of the following:

- The phonemes of a Chinese character or Chinese language.
- Three branches of phonology: Ancient Phonology, Mid-ancient Phonology and the Equal Rhymes.
- Rhyme and rhythm contained within a range of texts from Weng on the Rhyme and the Book of Songs.

LEARNING AND TEACHING STRATEGY

Lectures will introduce the students to the concepts, principles and practices. Tutorials and seminars will introduce practical examples which will be used to support the application, discussion, and critical evaluation of techniques learned.
