

Unlike in the transactional approach, it is not based on give and take relationships but on the leadership personality traits and ability to make a change through example articulation of an ~~ener~~ energizing vision and challenging goals.