Module Learning Outcomes
(from module syllabus)

Develop critical understanding of the concepts related to curriculum theory and practice in extending conceptual understanding of education.

Discuss and demonstrate critical understanding of philosophical, sociological, economic and professional factors associated with development & implementation curriculum

Debate the current issues related to curriculum and reflect on strategies for promoting inclusivity within the state curriculum of more than one country

TASK DESCRIPTION

Create and present an individual PowerPoint presentation that and individual supporting plans/notes that outlines the benefits and draw backs of a particular world curriculum, compare your chosen curriculum with the National Curriculum in the UK .

Choose one world curriculum (e.g China, Italy, New Zealand, America etc.) – please keep in mind that some counties have more than one curriculum, for example Dubai offers 15 different types of curriculum.

When writing about your chosen world curriculum it is your choice to write about the whole curriculum or just part of it (e.g if you want to write about their curriculum from early years through to secondary school or if you only want to focus on early years or secondary education). – Please be aware that some curricula only focus on a certain age group (e.g Te Whariki is an early years curriculum – this is absolutely fine and therefore you will only focus on early years and not secondary as secondary education will not be relevant to your presentation).

With regard to the National Curriculum in the UK, you can either compare your chosen world curriculum with the whole of the National Curriculum or with a part of the National Curriculum (e.g the Foundation Phase/Stage). Again, if you are focusing on a particular world curriculum that only relates to a certain age group (e.g an early years curriculum) then you would only compare it to the relevant part of the UK curriculum (e.g Foundation Phase). Also, it is up to you if you want to compare your chosen world curriculum with the curriculum in Wales, the curriculum in England, the curriculum in Ireland or the curriculum in Scotland.

Layout

Introduction

- Introduce the topic (set the scene)
- tell the audience what will be included in your presentation (what are your main objectives of the presentation)
- Include any relevant background information or definition of terms
- A good introduction will capture the audience's attention

Main body

- Develop the main points and present examples and evidence
- This part needs to be well structured (it is up to you to decide how you organise your material)
- Use visual aids where necessary (remember if you are including a video please keep the video short)
- Emphasise important information. Tell your audience when information is particularly important or interesting. Tell them why

Conclusion

- Don't introduce any new information in the conclusion.
- Take the opportunity to show that you have covered all the points you made in your introduction.
- Work out how you will finish your talk. You can signal your conclusion with the phrase 'In conclusion'

Remember:

To ask the audience if they have any questions

To be critical throughout the presentation

To include a reference list at the end of the presentation

To reference throughout the presentation

Use Harvard referencing

GUIDANCE FOR STUDENTS IN THE COMPLETION OF TASKS

NOTE: The guidance offered below is linked to the five generic assessment criteria overleaf.

1. Engagement with Literature Skills

Your work must be informed and supported by scholarly material that is relevant to and focused on the task(s) set; you should make use of scholarly reviews and primary sources, where appropriate (for example, refereed research articles and/or original materials appropriate to the discipline). You should provide evidence that you have accessed a wide range of sources, which may be academic, governmental and industrial; these sources may include academic journal articles, textbooks, current news articles, organisational documents, and websites. You should consider the credibility of your sources; academic journals are normally highly credible sources while websites require careful consideration/selection and should be used sparingly. Any sources you use should be current and up-to-date, mostly published within the last five years or so, though seminal/important works in the field may be older. You must provide evidence of your research/own reading throughout your work, using a suitable referencing system, including in-text citations in the main body of your work and a reference list at the end of your work.

Guidance specific to this assessment:

You will be expected to critically analyse concepts relating to curriculum theory and practice in relation to your chosen world curriculum and the National curriculum in the UK. You will need to examine multiple reliable and credible sources. Remember to use Harvard referencing In-text citations should be included on your presentation slides and you should also present your reference list on the last slide.

2. Knowledge and Understanding Skills

At level 6, you should be able to demonstrate coherent and detailed knowledge and a systematic understanding of the subject area, at least some of which is informed by the latest research and/or advanced scholarship within the discipline. You should be aware of the uncertainty, ambiguity and limits of knowledge. Your work must demonstrate the growing extent of your knowledge and systematic understanding of concepts and underlying principles associated with the subject area. Knowledge relates to the facts, information and skills you have acquired through your learning. You demonstrate your understanding by interpreting the meaning of the facts and information (knowledge). This means that you need to select and include in your work the concepts, techniques, models, theories, etc. appropriate to the task(s) set. You should be able to explain the theories, concepts, etc. meaningfully to show your understanding. Your mark/grade will also depend upon the extent to which you demonstrate your knowledge and understanding; ideally each should be complete and detailed, with comprehensive coverage.

Guidance specific to this assessment:

Your assignment needs to demonstrate an in-depth critical understanding of philosophical, sociological, economic and professional factors associated with the development and implementation of your chosen world curriculum and compare these with a UK curriculum.

3. Cognitive and Intellectual Skills

You should be able to: critically evaluate evidence, arguments, assumptions, abstract concepts and data some of which are at the forefront of a discipline (and that may be incomplete) to devise and sustain arguments, to make judgements and/or solve problems; describe and comment upon particular aspects of current research, or equivalent advanced scholarship, in the discipline Your work must contain evidence of logical, analytical thinking, evaluation and synthesis. For example, to examine and break information down into parts, make inferences, compile, compare and contrast information. This means not just describing what! But also justifying: Why? How? When? Who? Where? At what cost? At all times, you must provide justification for your arguments and judgements. Evidence that you have reflected upon the ideas of others within the subject area is crucial to you providing a reasoned and informed debate within your work.

Furthermore, you should provide evidence that you are able to make sound judgements and convincing arguments using data and concepts. Sound, valid conclusions are necessary and must be derived from the content of your work. Where relevant, alternative solutions and recommendations may be proposed.

Guidance specific to this assessment:

At this level, you are expected to demonstrate the ability to critically consider a range of evidence, guidance and viewpoints. Importantly, your assignment must critically evaluate the drawbacks and benefits of your chosen world curriculum

4. Practical Skills

At level 6, you should be able to apply the methods and techniques that you have learned to review, consolidate, extend and apply your knowledge and understanding, and to initiate and carry out projects. You will deploy accurately established techniques of analysis and enquiry relevant to the discipline, and apply them in complex and unpredictable contexts, to devise and sustain arguments and/or to solve problems. You should be able to frame appropriate questions to achieve a solution - or identify a range of solutions. You should be able to demonstrate how the subject-related concepts and ideas relate to real world situations and/or a particular context. How do they work in practice? You will deploy models, methods, techniques, and/or theories, in that context or circumstances, to assess current situations, perhaps to formulate plans or solutions to solve problems, or to create artefacts, some of which may be innovative and creative. This is likely to involve, for instance, the use of real world artefacts, examples and cases, the application of a model within an organisation and/or benchmarking one theory or organisation against others based on stated criteria. You should show awareness of the limitations of concepts and theories when applied in particular contexts.

Guidance specific to this assessment:

Marks in this section will be awarded on your ability critically analyse the current issues related to the chosen world curriculum and the curriculum in the UK

5. Transferable Skills for Life and Professional Practice

Your work must provide evidence of the qualities and transferable skills necessary for graduate-level employment requiring the exercise of initiative and personal responsibility and decision-making in complex and unpredictable circumstances. This includes demonstrating: the learning ability for professional development to advance existing skills and acquire new competences of a professional nature that will enable you to assume significant responsibility within organisations; that you can initiate and complete tasks and procedures, whether individually and/or collaboratively; that you can use appropriate media to effectively communicate information, arguments and analysis in a variety of forms to specialist and non-specialist audiences; fluency of expression; clarity and effectiveness in presentation and organisation. Work should be coherent and well-structured in presentation and organisation.

Guidance specific to this assessment:

Marks in this section will be awarded for overall professional delivery of the presentation and professional performance.

STUDENT FEEDBACK FORM

This section details the extent to which the assessment criteria are demonstrated by you, which in turn determines your mark. The marks available for each category of skill are shown. Lecturers will use the space provided to comment on the achievement of the task(s), including those areas in which you have performed well and areas that would benefit from development/improvement.
