How homelessness is a recurring issues within the United Kingdom

- The vast majority of the United Kingdoms homelessness population become homeless because of a large number of different reasons.
- lack of affordable housing (REF)
- poverty
- substance misuse
- Unemployment
- mental or physical health
- Life events
- relationship breaking down, losing a job,
- There is also social causes that link into homelessness, this could be because of leaving prison with little or no help from the state (Talk about), coming from care or even the army. (ref)
- Becoming homeless can in time make the vast majority of these problems can become harder to resolve in the end result.

Karl Marx (Conflict theory)

- What is this theory
- Conflict theory will arise when resources on a meso world or a society, it will involve status, power and it will show the uneven distributed or wealth and power in between the proletariat and bourgeoisie.
- How does this link into my topic
- When it comes to the conflict theory identifies the term know as capitalism, according to Marx.K the conflict theory, states that there are two different types of categorizes in a meso society: one is the owners and the other is the workers.
- Marx.K explained that the owners will usually take advantage of the proletariat, the bourgeoisie will deprive them of their basics needed's, you can see this in example. Even though the proletariat might believe that, they are being treated with respect, the bourgeoisie will only care about their profit.
- (Trappl, P., 2009)

Karl Marx (Conflict theory)

- Conflict theory explains the theory of capitalism and it has a link to homelessness, this could be due to the continuous arguments between the proletariat, the bourgeoisie, about of there quality of life in the United Kingdom.
- They need homeless people to disguise and make the people grateful for the bourgeoisie have allowed the proletariat to have.
- The argument against the capitalistic theory, is that it creates a large gap within a macro society. This is because the wealthy and powerful have the distribution of power, goods in the world.
- (Wallace, R.A. & Wolf, A., 2005)

Conclusion

- Homelessness is still an issue within the modern world, but there is organisation's that are helping with this issues. They are ...
- The United Kingdom needs to improve the power and wealth disputation in within the United Kingdom.
- This is not to say that the United Kingdom government aren't trying to low the statistics within homelessness
