

Academic and Employability Skills

- ▶ MOHAMED TURAY
- ▶ 2018268
- ▶ BMSW4001
- ▶ LECTURER: RITA UKACHI-LOIS

- ▶ APRIL 2021

Introduction

Name/ origin, family and occupation

Education - current course: H&SC UWTSD

Career development: First degree to PHD

Management role: Recruit & train staff, manage budget, support to residents, Organise activities, ensure standard national service are met. (prospect n.d.)

Strength

Time management

Digital skills

Team working

Communication skill

Weakness

Public speaking: to over come my fear and to be more bold

Lack of job and work experience

Opportunity

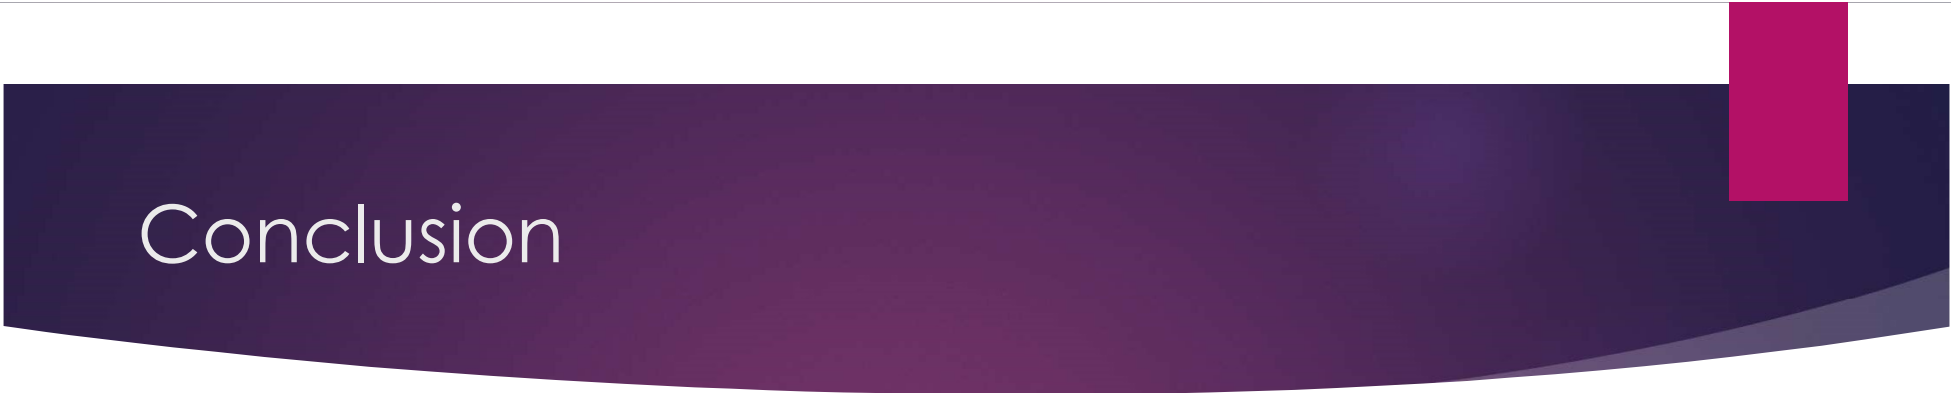

Job opportunity

Social work – flexible working times

Threat

- ▶ Competition in this sector
- ▶ Patients information at risk

Conclusion

- ▶ Employability capabilities are individual qualities that captures the interest of employers. They are also referred to as soft skills or transferable skills because they separate you from your technical knowledge or work experience and can be utilised to nearly any job, in any industry. (Homden 2020)

References

Barni Homden (2020) What are employability skills, and why are they needed <https://www.kaplanpathways.com/about/news/what-are-employability-skills-and-why-are-they-needed/>. (Accessed 8 April 2021)

Prospect (n.d.) Job profile: Care manager <https://www.prospects.ac.uk/job-profiles/care-manager> (Accessed 8 April 2021)