INTRODUCTION

A career development plan is essentially a planning document that identifies what your goals and objectives are for upcoming year, or more years .

I was always thinking about my future and what I want to do to have a nice career but for that I need to work more, especially with myself , that is very important to think, if I don't try to control myself and start to think about my future , because always I am very stressed about that, and I don't know how to start to do that. For that I will choose SMART GOAL method , like that I can identify my goals.

I need to be more proactive.

How to control my emotions.

How to accept my limits .

How to make effective decisions in a life.

I need to improve my growth mindset .

There are so many things with what I need to work and improve it .

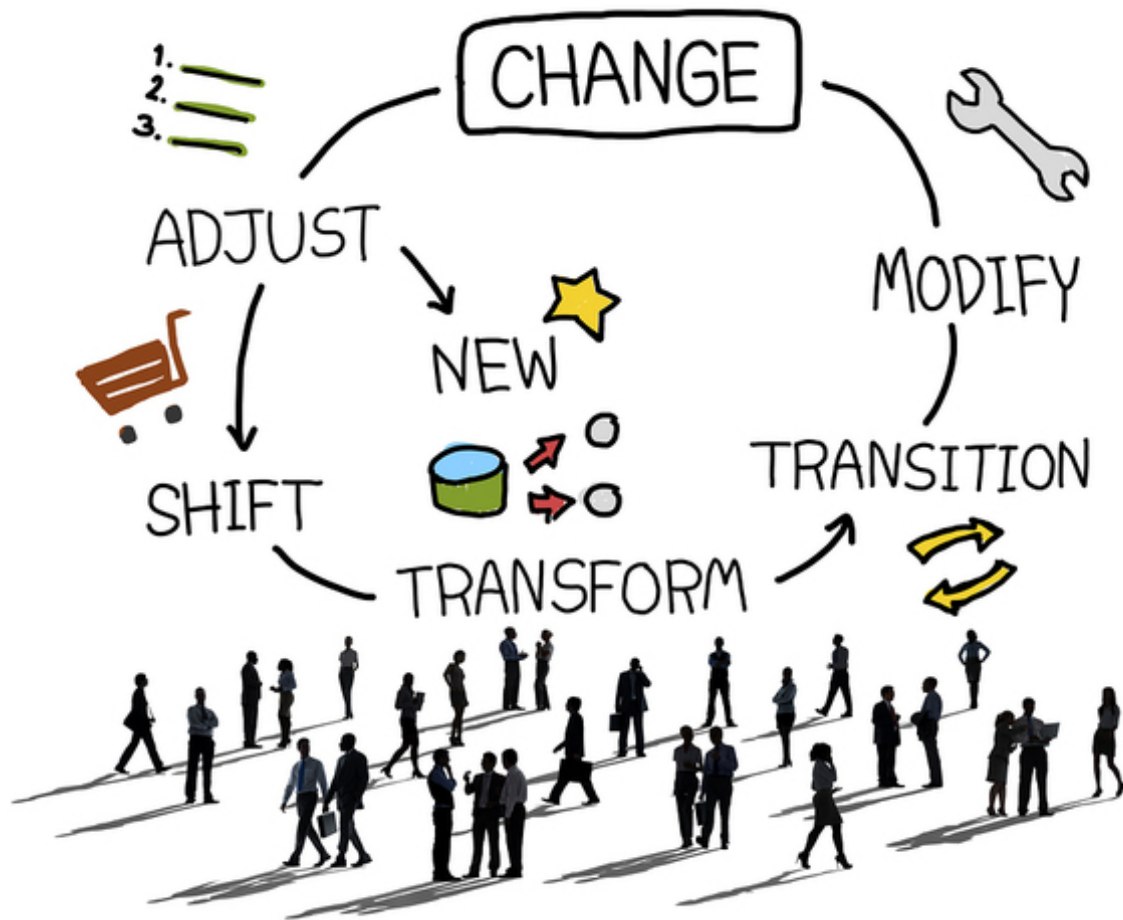

For my career I want to become a manager and after to have my own business.

For that I need to be motivated .

Measurable once you have a specific goal you just need to work on it, like how I do it. First I will start from 0 and after I will definitely have my own business .

I need to improve my communication , I need to be more open mind with everyone .

For my future I would like first to move alone to be more confidently with me , and to have my time alone, after I want to by a car and to get a better job .

When you want to do something you need to know your value, interests, strengths, personality, and for all of that I need to be ambitious. I need to be very prepared for all of this. know how to take a decision in a difficult moment. For that I am doing this module Problem Solving and Decision Making . And it s important to my jobs now, and in the future . When you communicate with other person and you try to understand what they want to do in the future and for that it very important to communicate with other persons to take any ideas for your career . But you need to have my ideas for all of the things what I want to do it and to try to complete any of the goals what I want it to achieved .

First I want to done my studies and to start to find a better job and to make my future . I need to have a plan.
