Module Learning Outcomes (from module syllabus)

- critically analyse the relationship between environmental change and organisational capability;
- critically analyse the nature of change and evaluate complex concepts relating to leadership in relation to change management;
- explore contemporary issues and their impact on business management;
- analyse and evaluate the relationship between organisational culture and change.

TASK DESCRIPTION

You are required to produce a 4,500 word (+/- 10%) academic report for the board of directors by applying academic change management and leadership models, methods, and theories to explore the key issues of leading change in the workplace.

Task Description/Scenario:

Whether we like it or not, change is constant. As a society, we all experienced—and continue to experience—changes in our workplaces due to ongoing economic uncertainty and digital disruption.

Organizations needed to make quick decisions with limited or new information on a constant basis. They navigated ever-changing uncertainty, determined what and how much to communicate and kept their employees safe. This required leadership, constant communication, agility and resilience.

Organizations are continually reinventing their business at a complex and faster pace due to technology, market conditions and competition with a focus on people-related programs to enhance workplace culture and retention.

There are some change management principles that organizations can use as a structured framework to simplify and accelerate their major processes and organizational change. They help increase engagement and efficiency so organizations can emerge post-pandemic stronger, more resilient, pragmatic and prepared for the future.

In this respect, a change management plan is necessary because every business change leads to a myriad of consequences – some expected, some hoped for, and many more totally unexpected. Some consequences are good, some are bad. Therefore, it is important to put a change management plan in place. It is necessary to dissect every business operation, interaction, and employee process in order to see how changing one part of it can affect the whole.

In light to the brief scenario above, you need to consider the change management process for an organisation in which you are currently working. If you are not currently working within an organisation, you may complete this task in relation to an organisation with which you are familiar. This could include work experience in a voluntary capacity. The organisation MUST be approved by your tutor. The size and location of the organisation is not important. All organisations, regardless of size or location undergo change activities.

Report Details:

Write a report, and include the following sections:

- a) A brief review of the CURRENT state of the Company.
- b) Your involvement /relationship with the Company.
- c) An outline of a recent/current change initiative that you will investigate for the report.
- d) An analysis of the recent history of the organisation and an explanation of how changes in the external environment including COVID-19 pandemic, digital disruption and ongoing economic uncertainty have impacted on the company.
- e) With the critical evaluation of different change management models, identify and incorporate issues that may be related to strategic change in that organisation including how the change was managed and what leadership style/styles was/were used.
- f) Evaluate the impact of organisational culture on the change management programme and develop a suitable change management plan for the future (proposed change, staff training and development plan, communication plan, evaluation plan) for the concerned organisation

You need to ensure that your report:

- a) Analyses the recent history of the organisation and explain how changes in the external environment including COVID-19 pandemic, digital disruption and ongoing economic uncertainty have impacted on the company.
- b) Evaluates change management models, incorporating issues related to strategic change in that organisation including how the change was managed and the leadership style.
- c) Evaluates the impact of organisational culture on the change management programme and develop a suitable change management plan for the future.
- d) Is within the requested word limit of 4,500 +/- 10% words.
- e) Uses a suitable report structure (including executive summary)
- f) Is well presented and professional
- g) Uses good grammar, spelling, and punctuation
- h) Uses UWTSD Harvard Referencing Guide at https://uwtsd.ac.uk/media/uwtsd-website/content-assets/documents/library-and-learning-resources/infoskills/Harvard-eng_v.1.2.pdf

GUIDANCE FOR STUDENTS IN THE COMPLETION OF TASKS

NOTE: The guidance offered below is linked to the five generic assessment criteria overleaf.

1. Engagement with Literature Skills

Your work must be informed and supported by scholarly material that is relevant to and focused on the task(s) set; you should make use of scholarly reviews and primary sources, where appropriate (for example, refereed research articles and/or original materials appropriate to the discipline). You should provide evidence that you have accessed a wide range of sources, which may be academic, governmental and industrial; these sources may include academic journal articles, textbooks, current news articles, organisational documents, and websites. You should consider the credibility of your sources; academic journals are normally highly credible sources while websites require careful consideration/selection and should be used sparingly. Any sources you use should be current and up-to-date, mostly published within the last five years or so, though seminal/important works in the field may be older. You must provide evidence of your research/own reading throughout your work, using a suitable referencing system, including in-text citations in the main body of your work and a reference list at the end of your work.

Guidance specific to this assessment: you are expected to have a minimum of two in-text citations (mainly from academic journal articles, textbooks and other peer-reviewed sources) for every 500 words written. Include a complete reference list that consistently applies Harvard referencing style.

2. Knowledge and Understanding Skills

At level 6, you should be able to demonstrate coherent and detailed knowledge and a systematic understanding of the subject area, at least some of which is informed by the latest research and/or advanced scholarship within the discipline. You should be aware of the uncertainty, ambiguity and limits of knowledge. Your work must demonstrate the growing extent of your knowledge and systematic understanding of concepts and underlying principles associated with the subject area. Knowledge relates to the facts, information and skills you have acquired through your learning. You demonstrate your understanding by interpreting the meaning of the facts and information (knowledge). This means that you need to select and include in your work the concepts, techniques, models, theories, etc. appropriate to the task(s) set. You should be able to explain the theories, concepts, etc. meaningfully to show your understanding. Your mark/grade will also depend upon the extent to which you demonstrate your knowledge and understanding; ideally each should be complete and detailed, with comprehensive coverage.

Guidance specific to this assessment: Review some alternative change management models, theories and techniques and develop a model for change, incorporating issues related to strategic change in your chosen organisation including how the change was managed and the leadership style.

3. Cognitive and Intellectual Skills

You should be able to: critically evaluate evidence, arguments, assumptions, abstract concepts and data some of which are at the forefront of a discipline (and that may be incomplete) to devise and sustain arguments, to make judgements and/or solve problems; describe and comment upon particular aspects of current research, or equivalent advanced scholarship, in the discipline. Your work must contain evidence of logical, analytical thinking, evaluation and synthesis. For example, to examine and break information down into parts, make inferences, compile, compare and contrast information. This means not just describing what! But also justifying: Why? How? When? Who? Where? At what cost? At all times, you must provide justification for your arguments and judgements. Evidence that you have reflected upon the ideas of others within the subject area is crucial to you providing a reasoned and informed debate within your work. Furthermore, you should provide evidence that you are able to make sound judgements and convincing arguments using data and concepts. Sound, valid conclusions are necessary and must be derived from the content of your work. Where relevant, alternative solutions and recommendations may be proposed.

Guidance specific to this assessment: Critically evaluate evidence, arguments, assumptions, abstract concepts and data relating to necessities of change in organisations and develop change management plan with sustained arguments, to make judgements and/or solve problems; describe and comment upon particular aspects of current research, or equivalent advanced scholarship, in the discipline

4. Practical Skills

At level 6, you should be able to apply the methods and techniques that you have learned to review, consolidate, extend and apply your knowledge and understanding, and to initiate and carry out projects. You will deploy accurately established techniques of analysis and enquiry relevant to the discipline, and apply them in complex and unpredictable contexts, to devise and sustain arguments and/or to solve problems. You should be able to frame appropriate questions to achieve a solution - or identify a range of solutions. You should be able to demonstrate how the subject-related concepts and ideas relate to real world situations and/or a particular context. How do they work in practice? You will deploy models, methods, techniques, and/or theories, in that context or circumstances, to assess current situations, perhaps to formulate plans or solutions to solve problems, or to create artefacts, some of which may be innovative and creative. This is likely to involve, for instance, the use of real world artefacts, examples and cases, the application of a model within an organisation and/or benchmarking one theory or organisation against others based on stated criteria. You should show awareness of the limitations of concepts and theories when applied in particular contexts.

Guidance specific to this assessment: Evaluate the impact of your chosen organisational culture on the change management programme and develop a suitable change management plan for the future

5. Transferable Skills for Life and Professional Practice

Your work must provide evidence of the qualities and transferable skills necessary for graduate-level employment requiring the exercise of initiative and personal responsibility and decision-making in complex and unpredictable circumstances. This includes demonstrating: the learning ability for professional development to advance existing skills and acquire new competences of a professional nature that will enable you to assume significant responsibility within organisations; that you can initiate and complete tasks and procedures, whether individually and/or collaboratively; that you can use appropriate media to effectively communicate information, arguments and analysis in a variety of forms to specialist and non-specialist audiences; fluency of expression; clarity and effectiveness in presentation and organisation. Work should be coherent and well-structured in presentation and organisation.

Guidance specific to this assessment: Follow the generic submission guidelines. Reflect upon your learning from this module and how you will use your understanding and knowledge in the workplace.
