Introduction

Written and oral communication is essential for building effective interpersonal relationships. With regard to written communication, employees can develop interpersonal relationships between employees and organizations. Meanwhile, we present a clear understanding of the needs of the organizational structure for excellent speech. As opportunities at the professional level are excellent, students should point out gaps in their communication skills in English. Organize letters, reports, and formal notes and understand complex mathematical aspects such as data analysis, reasoning, and statistics. It is important to analyse academic knowledge and, if necessary, apply, for example, geometric principles of building construction. To analyse the competencies of employability, students must develop and develop their skills so that successful members of the organization can contribute to the organization. To get a job, students must develop a work ethic, creativity, responsibility, teamwork, improve organizational performance, and develop critical thinking and decision-making ability. In order to excel at other candidates for the position, it is important to have the appropriate skills to fill out the job profile. For example, if a student wants to work as a sales and marketing manager, it is important to have a critical thinking process, decision-making skills, and the ability to understand and respond to employee needs. Between employees and organizations.

It is important to analyse my written and oral communication skills in order to understand the scope and scope of my work. My writing skills reflect my thoughts and analysis and influence advertising. My writing skills are similar to my strengths and my ability to conceptualize concepts. Good writing skills are similar in knowledge, skill and accuracy, which will greatly help in communication. Thus, writing skills help you communicate with most people in society. By using effective writing skills, I can build confidence in my organization if I am loyal to it. Writing ability to complete tasks with little or no grammatical errors (Sarkar,2020). My grammar creation skills will help me to define the organizational skills as well as your knowledge and development skills to become a content writer. When I think about a conversation, it can become a serious problem because I cannot correctly express my intentions, thoughts, and evaluations. So, it prevents me from effectively influencing people. When there is no emotional connection in a conversation with someone, I basically turn away from the subject and find that the conversation has failed.

Gibb's Reflective Cycle

Gibb's reaction cycle model can be used in a variety of situations to help with food. It is used to increase the understanding and proof of responsive learning. This is considered a useful tool that helps doctors keep track of important events and enables students to look back on meetings, create new learning and formulate new ideas. These six steps or steps include explanatory recognition, evaluation, analysis, conclusions, and action plans. It just asks me to look back and explain what I learned or what happened at the explanatory stage. At this point, there is no need to draw conclusions or make decisions where I need to understand the big picture, not just to succeed. I may conclude that I need to look back or remember what happened when the problem occurred. An example is displayed in the next line. After assigning a new business marketing project, you need to research carefully so that you understand the project. When the instructor gives you a new assessment, I do a rough analysis, I have only a basic understanding of all the content? When the facilitator gives lectures, listen carefully and write comments and important points. Also, if I have questions regarding this section, I can ask it publicly in class or directly to the teacher. The Gibbs model recommends the use of critical thinking because he believes that one individual can make a difference under his supervision. It is a good starting point for beginners, especially for new learning and transformation of knowledge into behaviour change. To reach a deeper level of understanding and learning in this process, people need to face the face of an event or experience.

Communication

Employees are an agent's resource, and employees with deep scientific knowledge are essential to an agent's productivity and profitability. One of my greatest qualities is the ability to explain and share my thoughts and thought processes with minimal grammatical errors and accuracy. Another aspect is maintaining official relations with the organization and its employees. Therefore, it is important to understand and correctly write letters and reports to ensure a smooth communication process. One of my most important qualities is a minimum of grammatical errors and accuracy, as well as the ability to write and communicate my thoughts and thought processes to others (Suleman, 2018). While maintaining a formal relationship between the organization and its employees, it is necessary to understand and write well-written letters and reports to maintain a good communication process. I am more interested in solving mathematical and arithmetic problems. Due to my lack of math skills, factors such as reasoning, data analysis, and geometric analysis make my work or project difficult.

Academic Skills and Qualities

Academic writing refers to concise and structured theoretical writing taking into consideration relevant literature evidences. The focus of the academic writing has been proposing of new theories or reflecting upon existing literary resources in simple and clear language rather than making it complex. I have gathered sufficient skills in my academic writing and been able to produce contents that have been comprehensive for the readers due to their formal structure and simplicity. I have focused upon carrying out research activities based on relevant literatures prior to initiate my academic writing.

Academic Writing

Reflective writing refers to imaginary and personal experiences based on certain memories, events and life incidents. Through reflective writing, the perception and feelings of the individuals have been expressed through their writing resources. I possess effective reflective writing skills that have been useful in writing reflective assignments. Through reflective writing, I have been able to express my own perception, feelings and viewpoints considering my life events and memories. My personal and professional analysis has also been carried out through my reflective writing.

Reflective Writing

Effective report writing includes formally structured document taking into consideration relevant purpose and scope. The reports are written for a specific purpose intended for a specific audience. Report includes specific problems and focuses on providing recommendations to resolve the problems. I possess effective report writing skills that reflect on specified topics and problem statements and focus upon imparting recommended solutions for the issue through a proper structural framework.

Report Writing

Referencing skills refers to identifying and allocating appropriate sources of information to be applied in the dissertations, reports and written assignments. Bibliographical references from books, articles, journals and online web sources are included in referencing aspects. I have gathered adequate information regarding referencing skills to allocate relevant informative resources in the written assignments done by me taking into account proper referencing style.

Referencing Skills

Public speaking refers to superior verbal communications skills in order to express individual feelings through simple and comprehensive language to the public audience. Presentations include effective graphical and pictorial representation of the subject matter to visually and theoretically deliver relevant information to the intended audiences. I possess effective public speaking and presentation skills in order to express my own perceptions through simple and fluent verbal communication to the focused audiences. My presentation skills have been reflected through my prior preparation of PowerPoint slides and thorough practicing of speaker notes in order to efficiently represent the subject matter to the intended audience.

Skills must take into account multiple points of view. When it comes to employability capabilities, my biggest asset is my creativity and work ethic. To contribute to an organization, a certain amount of creativity is key to critical thinking and timely decision making (Adebakin.2015). A work ethic is another important aspect of where I can work in an organization. However, they miss the opportunity to have excellent leadership in addressing the deficiencies of verbal communication and cannot fully contribute to the productivity of the organization.

Employability Skills

In an organization, the first technical skill (that is, computer skills) that needs to be mastered is critical. I practice computer skills and knowledge and have basic and advanced computer skills. The main aspect of the organizational structure is the project proposal and the report on the successes and failures of the project. Thus, it is possible to analyse the project and propose practical countermeasures.

Technical Skills

My job is to deeply understand the work ethic and write grammar based on various computer skills. Apart from my strengths, there are also disadvantages. That is, weakness in speech communication. The opportunities I have include instant writing skills and advanced computer skills to enhance my career. I think the only threat is my ability to communicate verbally, which is a weak point in my communication.

At some point, the malfunction must be repaired. The topic of oral communication knowledge is very important to not miss out on opportunities in my field. Therefore, conversational problems need to be analysed as variables. The topic of oral communication can fully meet my needs. The solution to my problems is very important. I will spend a quarter of my time learning these skills.

At some point, the malfunction must be repaired and I plan to work on it.

Conclusion

To become a great content creator, I need to analyse my skill set. Then my creativity will have a positive impact on the organization. However, it is equally important to overcome weaknesses and make progress in this area.
