John Carey is Professor of Early and Medieval Irish at University College Cork, where he teaches medieval Irish and Welsh language and literature; he is also general editor of Temenos Academy Review. His books include Ireland and the Grail (2007), Ten Basic Principles That Inspire the Work of Temenos (2017), The Mythological Cycle of Medieval Irish Literature (2018) and Magic, Metallurgy and Imagination in Medieval Ireland (2019). He is a Member of the Royal Irish Academy and a Fellow of the Temenos Academy.

Sandra Hill studied fine art before living in the Far East for several years. She has studied with the French sinologists Claude Larre and Elisabeth Rochat de la Vallée, and co-authored a translation and commentary on 'Jingshen: the vital spirits', chapter 7 of the Huainanzi. She teaches the module on Daoism for the Temenos Foundation Course in the Perennial Philosophy, and is currently undertaking doctoral study at the Prince's Foundation School of Traditional Arts.

Katy Cawkwell was commissioned to develop Rhiannon as a storytelling performance in 2003. She has performed it over 30 times since then, including at the Barbican, the British Museum and four international storytelling festivals. It is available as a CD and was published in book form by Parthian Books in 2007. Katy is well-known in the storytelling world for unravelling complex traditional narratives into compelling, glittering stories that linger in the mind long after they are told. Other work includes Tristan & Iseult, The Falcon Bride (Njal's Saga), Sigurd & Fafnir, The Kingdom of the Heart (Czech) and Iron Teeth, Eaten Heart (Siberian). She also runs Artemis Storytelling, promoting and teaching storytelling in the Exeter area.
