Introduction

- What is your literature review about?
- Dignity in Care and looking at different forms of abuse with male service users with learning disability
- Summarize what your research focus is giving a rationale/justification of the importance of the research
- Care abuse for people with learning disabilities has a long and very disturbing history around the globe. It extends from prehistoric times till the current times. In the recent past, like 20-30 years, the care abuse of people with learning disabilities has become a social problem. This social problem has been raising the issues to the people in attaining the desired healthcare.
- Aim: What are you trying to find out?
- To identify the solutions for the abusive care practices being delivered to people with learning disabilities

Objectives: How were you going to find that out?

- To characterise the behaviours as abusive for individuals with learning disabilities.
- To analyse the practices of learning-disabled people with health care needs and provide them better opportunities.
- To establish the procedure for reducing abusive behaviour in care delivery.
- To recommend the future best practices for reducing care abuse toward people with learning

Result

What were the key findings or results of the literature you reviewed?

Quantitative analysis

a. Difference in gender.

Men face challenges and they are similarly in danger as women of domestic abuse; they face restrictions in moving towards the things that are enjoyed by them.

b. Social and cultural views of disability

- The cultural and social perspectives on disabled individuals might build the danger for domestic violence.
- Unethical social issues facing male individuals with learning difficulties are stigmatisation, prejudice, rejection, fear, and violence.

What key themes did you identify?

- Lack of dignity in care abuse
- Challenges of treating people with dignity

Discussion

Discuss the themes that you have found and describe why your findings are important for health and social care.

- From the developed research findings, it can be understood that there in many cultures globally, there are different aspects both negative and positive permitting opinions about disability and the result is that adverse perception.
- There are many unethical social issues facing male individuals with learning difficulties are stigmatisation, prejudice, rejection, fear, violence, and sexual abuse.
