

Independent Project – Proposal form 2026-2027

Student Name: Vivienne Evans (2403723)
Proposal Title: Until Proven
Proposal Subtitle: An interactive experience where an audience of detectives uncovers the truth.
Proposal aims and objectives: The main focus of “Until Proven” is community outreach and engagement, to create an uncommon (but not unique) experience that allows members of the community to engage with creativity in its shortest form, taking inspiration from immersive theatre and minimalism for its approach in devising and set design respectively. Below is a list of research aims and areas of interest I would like to include: • Agatha Christie’s Poirot (+ Ustinov’s & Branagh’s films) • Product Demand (Would this be a project the community would want? What does the community expect of murder mysteries?) • Immersive Performances and Experiences (Punchdrunk, Rowtown’s Museum of the Paranormal and Spirituality, Ruby Rhino Escape Rooms) • Improvisation and Devising (Interactive interrogations, constructing a timeline of events, etc.)
Proposed Collaborations: Hannah Green – Hannah’s experience with murder mysteries, particularly in an interactive experience, prompts me to believe a discussion with Hannah in terms of her potential involvement would be fruitful, i.e. being a member of the cast. Leah Ní Sirideáin – Leah has shown interest in the project, but further discussion is required to identify her interest and potential involvement. Trystan Hughes – Trystan showed interest in the project and its potential for improvisation. Examination thus far has allowed me to conclude his involvement in rehearsals could be very useful. Further discussion would prove useful in determining his potential involvement in the project directly, i.e. being a member of the cast. Rhiannon Lloyd – Lloyd has shown interest in the project and potentially supplying costumes and/or costume advice, however further discussion is required to assess her potential involvement in the project. Rhiannon Trenary – Trenary showed interest in the project due to having previously been in an interactive murder mystery. Further discussion would prove useful in determining her potential involvement, i.e. being a member of the cast.
