Megan, thank you for your submission.

You have submitted a few repeating pages for your character sheets, and there are some mistakes in some of the characters, please see the red markings for the correction of your character sheets. For high quality character sheets, you also need to include a learning summary, i.e. what you have learnt, how you would use the new vocabulary in a sentence etc., this part is missing. The mark for your character sheets is 60.

For your 1500 characters review, you need to include 3 components : 1. Summarise the article, state your learning outcome, write about your opinions on these articles. The latter two parts are more important than the first, however, these two parts were missing. The mark for your review is 48.

You have not submitted the themed survey/interview, so the mark for it is 0.

Your handwriting is beautiful, if you pay more attention to the structure and strokes when writing the characters, there will be less mistakes. I would also like to see more of your own reflections and opinions on the articles you have learnt using new vocabulary and grammar, it will help you enhance your Chinese writing skills.
